

HEALTH PROMOTION

NEMS Linda Yu Bien Volunteer Program

North East Medical Services (NEMS) is looking for college students who are interested in pursuing a health-related career for our Linda Yu Bien Volunteer Program. The goal of the program is to expose students to the dynamic environment of a community health center so that they can better understand how health care is delivered to an underserved population.

DATES

This is a volunteer program that will begin approximately June 2024. The volunteer must be able to work continuously through the summer. Approximately 240 hours, schedules are to be determined.

LOCATION

The Linda Yu Bien Volunteer Program is located at our NEMS Chinatown Clinic on 1520 Stockton Street in San Francisco, California.

* Volunteers may receive a stipend ($2,000) after they have successfully completed the program.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

Volunteers will receive trainings from NEMS Health Education Department on how to improve communication skills in a health care setting and learn how to deliver culturally competent health education messages. Primary responsibilities include:

- Counseling pediatric and adult patients on healthy lifestyle behaviors;
- Developing health education materials in Chinese and English;
- Working with community partners in regards to health education talks, health fairs, and outreach events and activities.

Candidates should exhibit a strong interest in working with the underserved Asian population, have basic knowledge of Asian health issues, and have strong communication/presentation skills. Fluency in Cantonese and/or Mandarin is required. Volunteers will have the opportunity to work directly with patients and NEMS' health care team.

Apply online using our Volunteer Contact Form www.nems.org/support-us/?show=vol and mention the Linda Yu Bien Volunteer Program in your message.

Application deadline: May 31, 2024
